

CORESITE CONNECTS DATA CENTERS VIA NEW ANY2 NORTHEAST EXCHANGE

Mirroring Any2 California, Any2 Northeast provides CoreSite customers with more connectivity options

Denver, CO – July 9, 2009 – National data center, colocation and peering provider, CoreSite (formerly CRG West), a Carlyle company, today announced expansion of Any2, its public Internet exchange, with the addition of a new Northeast Exchange. The Any2 Northeast Exchange connects CoreSite's data centers in Northern Virginia, Washington, D.C., and New York City.

In addition to supporting Any2 peering, the Northeast Exchange will support point-to-point Ethernet, virtual private networks (VPNs), and Community of Interest Networks (CoINs). This further facilitates interconnections between CoreSite customers within all Northeast Exchange data centers.

IPv6 ready, Any2's Northeast Exchange provides additional utilities, including CoreSite's Any2Easy route servers and integrated customer management portal. Using experience gained with the Any2 California Exchange, one of the largest public Internet exchange points in the world, the Any2 Northeast Exchange will focus on providing a powerful, cost-effective utility for Internet access, regional and international networks, and content delivery networks for meeting and interconnecting. CoreSite also supports remote access to Any2 through CoreSite's "Open Exchange" policy.

"Any2 is changing peering within the American Internet community by lowering the barrier to entry and by giving all networks the opportunity to lower operational costs, increase performance, and add an additional layer of network resilience," commented John Savageau, CoreSite's Chief Technology Officer. "CoreSite is committed to providing the best possible value-added utilities for all customers."
